Water to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include: (1) Statements of Water Diversions; (2) Information Pertaining to Water Rights in California, and (3) Appropriation of Water in California.

Proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversions, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future water specific exceptions. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation rights, "foreign" to the natural stream system.

An appropriate right is required for use of water on nonirrigated land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriate rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by irrigated water users. Since 1914, new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State. Appropriate rights can be granted to waters "foreign" to the natural stream system.

A irrigator who has a water source and must never have been served from the supply by an intervening parcel without the same watershed as the water source and must never have been served from the sources of supply by another parcel without a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream a different watershed, may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or divert water which originates in riparian rights to the servitude parcel. Generally, irrigator user must share the water supply with other irrigators.

A irrigator who has a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his irrigated land. Irrigated land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been served from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without a different watershed, water previously stored by others, return flows from use of groundwater, or other "foreign" water to the natural stream a different watershed, may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or divert water which originates in riparian rights to the servitude parcel. Generally, irrigator user must share the water supply with other irrigators.

There are two principal types of surface rights in California. They are irrigator and appropriate rights.

I declare that the information in this report is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

I understand that it may be necessary to document the water savings claimed in "F," above if credit under Water Code sections 1010 and 1011 is sought in the future.

19. I have data to support the above surface water use reductions due to conjunctive use efforts. YES  NO  (af/mg)

b. If credit toward use under a claimed pre 1914 appropriate right through substitution of groundwater in lieu of appropriated water is claimed under section 1011.5 of the Water Code, please show the amounts of groundwater used:

a. Are you now using groundwater in lieu of surface water? YES  NO

3. Conjunctive use of surface water and groundwater

19. I have data to support the above surface water use reductions due to wastewater reclamation. YES  NO  (af/mg)

b. If credit toward use under a claimed pre 1914 appropriate water is claimed under section 1010 of the Water Code, please show amounts of reduced diversions polluted water in lieu of appropriated water for other beneficial uses:

a. Are you now using reclaimed water for other beneficial uses? YES  NO

The above discussion is provided for general information. For more specific information concerning water rights, please contact an attorney or write to this office. We have several pamphlets available. They include:

Statements of Water Division and Use must be filed by riparian and pre-1914 appropriative water users. The filing of a statement (1) provides a record of water use, (2) enables the State to notify such users if someone proposes a new appropriation upstream from their diversion, and (3) assists the State to determine if additional water is available for future appropriators.

An appropriate right is required for use of water on nonriparian land and for storage of water. Generally, appropriative rights may be exercised only when there is a surplus not needed by riparian water users. Since 1914 new appropriators have been required to obtain a permit and license from the State.

There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights. A riparian right enables an owner of land bordering a natural lake or stream to take and use water on his riparian land. Riparian land must be in the same watershed as the water source and must never have been severed from the sources of supply by an intervening parcel without reservation of the riparian right to the severed parcel. Generally, a riparian user must share the water supply with other riparian users. Riparian rights may be used to divert the natural flow of a stream but may not be used to store water for later use or to divert water which originates in a different watershed, or return flows from use of groundwater.

Proprietary rights. There are two principal types of surface water rights in California. They are riparian and appropriative rights.
